The Salvation Army has loyally served Wake County since 1887, when it began a Prison Ministry for 500 inmates. As the need grew, so did the organization, introducing new services: shelter, clothing, food and medical care, among others. Since 1887, the Salvation Army has served Wake County with an average of 50,000 people per month.

The Salvation Army of Wake County is thrilled to be in our new home. Please stop by the Center of Hope for a visit…you will no doubt be inspired to join our fight for hope!
CHRISTMAS IS COMING!

Christmas is just around the corner. Thanks to your support last year, we were able to distribute toys and gifts to 8,717 children who would otherwise go without on Christmas morning. We are again looking to you, our community, for help to make this year more successful than ever!

CHRISTMAS IS COMING!

In downtown Raleigh, there’s been a recent senator added to the political landscape. As the Commanding Officer of The Salvation Army, I feel obliged to bring situations like this, and more, to the attention of other agencies and mission systems so that we can all be trying to end Hunger and Homelessness.

In one such meeting just this morning, I played a long-delayed argument through my mind and came up with what I think is a sound conclusion. As a long time Salvation Army chief, and other social ministries, at best, only provide “bandaids on a cancer.” Others may provide for their patients “longevity of life” and “quality of life,” yet do not cure the actual diseases that manifest the symptoms. In one such meeting just this morning, I played a long-delayed argument through my mind and came up with what I think is a sound conclusion. As a long time Salvation Army chief, and other social ministries, at best, only provide “bandaids on a cancer.” Others may provide for their patients “longevity of life” and “quality of life,” yet do not cure the actual diseases that manifest the symptoms. In one such meeting just this morning, I played a long-delayed argument through my mind and came up with what I think is a sound conclusion. As a long time Salvation Army chief, and other social ministries, at best, only provide “bandaids on a cancer.” Others may provide for their patients “longevity of life” and “quality of life,” yet do not cure the actual diseases that manifest the symptoms. In one such meeting just this morning, I played a long-delayed argument through my mind and came up with what I think is a sound conclusion. As a long time Salvation Army chief, and other social ministries, at best, only provide “bandaids on a cancer.” Others may provide for their patients “longevity of life” and “quality of life,” yet do not cure the actual diseases that manifest the symptoms. In one such meeting just this morning, I played a long-delayed argument through my mind and came up with what I think is a sound conclusion. As a long time Salvation Army chief, and other social ministries, at best, only provide “bandaids on a cancer.” Others may provide for their patients “longevity of life” and “quality of life,” yet do not cure the actual diseases that manifest the symptoms. In one such meeting just this morning, I played a long-delayed argument through my mind and came up with what I think is a sound conclusion. As a long time Salvation Army chief, and other social ministries, at best, only provide “bandaids on a cancer.” Others may provide for their patients “longevity of life” and “quality of life,” yet do not cure the actual diseases that manifest the symptoms. In downtown Raleigh, there’s been a recent senator added to the political landscape. As the Commanding Officer of The Salvation Army, I feel obliged to bring situations like this, and more, to the attention of other agencies and mission systems so that we can all be trying to end Hunger and Homelessness.